

Dear FCC,

I don't appreciate telemarketers calling my number during Sunday, at dinner time, or anytime for that matter!!! I don't appreciate my phone number being sold and given to anyone who wants to sell something! They won't take no for an answer~~they act like they are your long lost relative, and they call and call and call even after you say you aren't interested!! IF I want a product, I'LL CALL THEM, they don't need to keep calling me and bugging me to purchase something I'm not interested in!! In most cases where a telemarketer has called, I'm not interested and they have just wasted my time!! They won't give you their name and number so you can call them back during their dinner time or early in the morning or after 9PM at night!!! Let them go out and get a REAL job and quit bothering people they don't know and feeding them a line of crap!! Nothing seems to be done even after I have told them to quit calling!! Is there a number that we can call to file harrassment charges if these telemarketers keep calling even after you have told them you don't want them to call you anymore?? I thought they were legally bound to take your name off their lists if you request it, or they could be charged with harrassment. Is this true?
